

Services Cooperative Association

The Services Cooperative Association is a unique business development organization founded by small business men and women who recognized the value in fostering individual initiative at the grassroots level of emerging enterprises.

Created from research by the Houston Chambers of Commerce—Small Business Council from 1980 to 1982, the cooperative held its first meeting on March 15, 1983, with 14 companies represented. As of January 10, 2010, more than 43,732 companies have attended SCA business building programs, and more than 34,966 referrals for new business items have been generated.

The City of Houston salutes Services Cooperative Association for its work in free enterprise and recognizes its achievements during the observance of its 27th Anniversary Celebration of start-up business incubation, entrepreneurial education, small business development and emerging business assistance in Houston.

Therefore, I, Annise D. Parker, Mayor of the City of Houston, hereby proclaim March 17, 2010, as
